Occupation Troops Turn on Italians In Trieste Fracas

Windows Smashed, Heads Cracked As Angry British Shout Insults

TRIESTE, July 8 (AP).—British occupation troops—smarting under the indignities their comrades suffered from Italian rioters last Saturday—turned on the Italians tonight in a violent counter-demonstration.

Show windows were smashed and heads were cracked during the one-hour fracas in downtown Trieste before club-swinging British military police drove the angry troops back to their barracks.

The disorder began when a group of British soldiers, accompanied by some American soldiers, congregated in the Piazza Goldoni, which had been a concentration point for the Italian rioters.

The soldiers then went to a motion picture house for British servicemen where they were joined by troops leaving the cinema. The Britons marched down the broad thoroughfare rolling up their sleeves, swinging their belts and shouting insults to Italian bystanders. There were approximately 1,000 British demonstrators.

British military police rushed into the fray and drew some blood with their clubs.

An irate Tommy asked an M.P. who was pursuing him: "What did we fight this war for anyway?"

"Don't ask me," retorted the M.P., as he shoved the soldier in a military truck.

American military police also dispersed a milder demonstration by several hundred civilians who gathered in front of their headquarters singing Communist songs.

In another outbreak an Italian cafe was invaded and its contents were destroyed. Eight shots were fired during the fracas but no one was hurt, and the source of the firing was not determined.

A.F.L. Men Will Cross C.C.L. Line

Striking Foundrymen Back to Work Today

VANCOUVER, July 8 (CP).—A. J. McDonell, member of the British Columbia Legislature, and operator of the McDonell Metal Manufacturing Co., Ltd., said here tonight that A.F.L.-affiliated employees in 17 city foundries will return to work tomorrow morning despite C.C.L. picket lines. Last week, the men signed an agreement with the plants calling for a 10 cents an hour increase and a 44-hour week.

Mr. McDonell, acting as spokesman for the operators, said five plants resumed operation today after A.F. of L. Moulders' Union members crossed picket lines. He challenged a statement made earlier by John Frame, of the C.C.L. Union, which said that 95 per cent of the A.F. of L. unionists had refused to cross the picket lines.

"My own opinion is that perhaps 75 per cent of those who approached the plants with the idea of going to work, did so," Mr. McDonell said. He added that from information received and from today's experience, "75 per cent of the plants involved will be operating again tomorrow."

BULLETINS

Five Injured

VANCOUVER, July 8 (CP).—Five persons were injured, one critically, in a series of spectacular traffic accidents here today. George Swan, 43, suffered a possible fractured skull when his light delivery truck was completely demolished by a 70-ton interurban tram. Allan Lee, 44, was pinned behind the wheel of his car when he became involved in a head-on collision with a street car on Granville Bridge. A Chinese, Wing H. Hoy, 45, suffered bruises and shock when the car he was driving careened off a street car on Cambie Bridge.

Hits Traffic

"Traffic conditions in Victoria are abominable," Ald. B. J. Gadsden said yesterday in scoring the city council for delay in passing the by-law implementing Police Chief J. A. McLellan's plan for improvements in the regulations.

100 Die

MANILA, July 9 (Tuesday) (AP).—The bloodiest clash of Central Luzon's continuing strife caused the death of at least 100 armed peasants and three Philippine Army men in the Barrio Township of Santa Cruz, near Tarlac, military police authorities reported today.

Record Rainfall

SALEM, Wash., July 8 (AP).—The heaviest July rainfall recorded during the 22 years of United States Weather Bureau reporting here, kept pickers out of still heavily-laden cherry orchards today. The day's rainfall, .83 of an inch, is greater than the total for the month of July any year since 1922, when .92 of an inch was recorded.

Parking Meters

VANCOUVER, July 8 (CP).—City council tonight endorsed a special committee report favoring the installation of 1,000 parking meters throughout the downtown section on a six-months trial basis.

Action Delayed On City By-Laws

Consideration by the City Council of by-laws for improvements to waterworks and street lighting amounting to $216,000 and a by-law for approval of sale of the Willows will be delayed at least until the next meeting, it was learned last night.

Meet Tonight To Consider Tillicum Huts

A special meeting of Saanich Council will be held tonight to consider the Canadian Legion project to convert Tillicum Road army camp into suites for veterans, Reeve A. G. Lambrick said yesterday.

Forrest L. Shaw, Citizens' Rehabilitation Council chairman, who interviewed Mr. Lambrick together with Legion representatives, yesterday outlined the plan which is intended to create 30 suites at an estimated cost of $6,000.

Present rules forbid War Assets Corporation from leasing surplus military buildings to any organization other than municipalities. Saanich will not undertake the conversion, but may lease and sublease the buildings to the Legion and Citizens' Rehabilitation Council.

The Legion intends to finance the conversion and turn the housing units over to Citizens' Rehabilitation Council for administration.

Vancouver Man Supervises Arena

C. T. Hamilton, Vancouver engineer, was named supervisor for the entire Memorial Arena project by the City Council yesterday.

Formerly Mr. Hamilton was responsible for plans and construction of the "barrel-type" roof of the structure only.

He will be required to supervise installation of all electrical, refrigeration and heating equipment for a fee of 5 per cent of the costs of the installation plus travelling expenses.

Former German Prisoner Returns for Citizenship

MONTREAL, July 8 (CP).—A 24-year-old German who spent five years as a prisoner of war in Canada and was sent back to Germany three months ago, escaped from custody in Belgium and worked his way to Montreal aboard a Canadian freighter posing as a Canadian. He walked into No. 10 police station here today and told Lt. Frank Hogue: "I love Canada and I want to live here."

Conradi told police he helped with the sugar beet crop near Chatham, Ont., last Fall and added:

"It was during those periods when I was associated with Canadians that I perfected my English and that I learned how good Canadians were and how nice it would be to live in such a great country."

He said that three times during 1945 he wrote to the Federal Government for permission to remain in Canada after war, but did not receive a reply. In April of this year he was told he was being returned to Germany.

He escaped at a suburban railway in Antwerp, Belgium. A short time later, posing as a Canadian who had missed his ship, he induced British and Canadian authorities to get him a job on a Dominion-bound freighter.

He told officers that after his escape from the P.O.W. train in Antwerp, he went to Cologne on a British Army train where he asked to be discharged officially from the German Merchant Navy.

An investigation will be made as to whether Conradi was really discharged. If he was, he will be handed over to immigration authorities as a civilian who had entered Canada illegally. If he was not, he will be taken care of by the Canadian Army as an escaped P.O.W.

Smouldering Ruins After $45,000 Cowichan Bay Blaze

—Colonist Photos.

In the top picture is shown charred remains of timbers and land foundations still smouldering yesterday evening at the scene of the Sunday Cowichan Bay fire disaster. Losses totaled an estimated $45,000, which destroyed Maxwell House and Peck's fishermen's resort. Twisted pipes, metal sections of burned furniture, and the hot-water tank which exploded, can be seen. To the left, in the lower photograph, are buildings saved from the blaze. Bucket brigades poured water over the buildings to prevent the fire from spreading.

Council Fears Rabbit Menace

"This is dynamite," declared Alderman Edward Williams.

The statement was made at a meeting of the City Council yesterday during a discussion on a proposed amendment to a city by-law governing the numbers of poultry or rabbits that could be kept by Victoria householders.

At the request of the Vancouver Island Rabbit Breeders' Association, the council at a previous meeting instructed A. J. Patton, city solicitor, to amend the by-law so that baby rabbits or poultry would not be affected by the by-law's restriction to 15 head per householder.

"We will be infested with rabbits and chickens if this amendment goes through," said Ald. Williams.

The measure was tabled in the absence of Ald. W. L. Morgan, who originally suggested the amendment.

Mercy Is Urged For Mihailovic

BELGRADE, July 8 (AP).—Defence counsel appealed today for mercy for Gen. Draja Mihailovic, telling the court trying the Chetnik leader for treason that Mihailovic's "tragedy lies in the fact that he did not reach an agreement with Marshal Tito."

Mihailovic's counsel added: "No one in London complained about him. He was a little man—too small to have his own policy."

Tie-Up in Pilchard Fleet May Follow Tuna Strike

VANCOUVER, July 8 (CP).—Approximately 100 tuna fishermen walked off their boats today in dispute over the basis of sharing profits with the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association. At the same time, Homer Stevens, organizer of the United Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union (A.F.L.), announced that a possible tie-up in the pilchard fleet, involving approximately 800 fishermen and tendermen, was likely.

Stevens said that the pilchard fishermen would strike unless agreement is reached in current negotiations with the salmon canners' operating committee before operations begin July 15.

He added that the tunamgn are demanding the boat owners' share be 25 per cent of net stock after deducting expenses.

About 25 boats are involved here, with the possibility that the tie-up will take in another 20 in Prince Rupert and Victoria.

In the pilchard dispute, about 150 boats and packers are involved.

The union is demanding $8 a ton for pilchards instead of last year's price of $6.50, and that all boats carry eight men instead of the regulation seven. Also involved is the 1946-47 herring agreement, for which negotiations are being conducted simultaneously.

Criticize City Airport Action

Criticizing the action of the city in advising War Assets Corporation that Victoria is interested in acquiring 60 acres of former naval property at Gordon Head, Ald. J. A. Worthington told the City Council that Gordon Head was not the proper site for an airport.

The proposed airport would spoil a good residential site, he argued. On the other hand the use of Patricia Bay Airport could be obtained and the road to the airport could be improved to shorten the time required for travel to the city.

Ald. H. M. Diggon, supporting the move to obtain the property, said he was "surprised at Ald. Worthington for taking such a short term view."

Ald. B. J. Gadsden explained that the city had to act quickly or face the possibility of losing a vital part of the proposed airport site. He understood the land originally was sold to the Government for $5,000 and could be purchased for a fraction of that amount.

Plumbing, Heating Price Limit Lifted

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP).—Ceiling prices and control of resale prices for services on plumbing and heating equipment are among goods and services from which price ceilings have been removed, it was learned today.

A Price Board official explained that under the blanket "Order 842," brought down in conjunction with Finance Minister Ilsley's announcement last Friday of a four-point price stabilization program, only those goods and services specifically listed in the order continue under control.

Big Four Reach Accord Peace Talks on July 29

Last Obstacle to Conference Cleared France Will Sit on All Commissions

PARIS, July 8 (AP).—The Big Four Foreign Ministers broke their deadlock on peace conference procedural issues tonight and authorized France to send out invitations tomorrow for the 21-power general European peace conference.

The ministers adopted a French compromise proposal providing that a few simple rules of procedure, to be considered as suggestions only, would accompany the invitations to the conference, American informants said.

This action represented a victory for Britain and the United States which had held out against binding the peace conference with mandatory rules of procedure as the Russians originally had demanded.

Breaking of the log-jam came after almost eight hours of negotiations, including a private session which lasted for more than five hours.

The agreement on the procedure issue apparently removed the last obstacle to formal convocation of the peace conference to examine proposed treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland by the Allies which participated in the war against them.

Barring further unforeseen difficulties, the peace conference will open July 29 in Luxembourg Palace, prewar seat of the French Senate.

On a motion by State Secretary Byrnes the foreign ministers agreed to accord France the same status on all peace conference committees she enjoyed in the current ministers' sessions. This means that French representatives will sit on all commissions, but without the right to vote except in groups concerned with the Italian treaty.

Under tonight's agreements China will not be included as an inviting power but will attend the conference as an invited country.

Under suggested rules of procedure as proposed by Georges Bidault, French President and Foreign Minister, the conference will designate a steering committee, composed of representatives of each delegation, whose decisions will be taken by a two-third majority vote.

Evacuate Austrians

VIENNA, July 8 (AP).—Hundreds of families were herded into trucks and loaded into boxcars today as the Red Army began a systematic evacuation from the Soviet zone of Austria of 54,000 Germans and other non-Austrians.

The program began shortly after 6 a.m., deadline set in the order suddenly announced by the Russians yesterday.

The Austrian Interior Ministry said it had ordered police not to assist the Russians in dispossessing any persons who had come to the country before March 13, 1938, or who had acquired Austrian citizenship.

Reports said that families were put in open trucks and moved to railroad yards. There they were loaded into the box cars. Each person was permitted to take 30 pounds of belongings.

Between 400 and 500 persons were gathered at one Russian railroad station and enough railroad cars were reported held to transport 14,000 persons tomorrow.

Pearkes Hits B.C. Forests Taxation Policy

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP).—Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., declared in the Commons tonight during debate on the budget that the Dominion Government was draining off money from British Columbia's forestry industry in taxation and putting next to nothing back into it.

He said that over the last five years the Dominion had taken in taxes $1.55 for every dollar of revenue collected by the Province of British Columbia itself. The industry was worth some $400,000,000 and paid salaries of $958,000,000. It was a highly competitive field.

The ceiling prices set for lumber, Gen. Pearkes said, were below the cost of production and the industry was able to survive only through its export sales. Despite this, the industry had been subjected to "double taxation."

He said the Dominion Government should be prepared to assist the industry by allowing the operators to charge to current account the costs of reforestation and certain other projects.

Aleman Leads Mexico Vote

MEXICO CITY, July 8 (AP).—Miguel Aleman, presidential candidate of the Government-supported Institutional Revolutionary party (P.R.I.), led tonight in first official returns from yesterday's election which apparently was the first free and peaceful balloting in Mexico's history.

Newspapers and officials said it was fairly certain that Aleman would be Mexico's next president although his party was losing in many Congressional races.

China War Resumption Held Likely

Peace Negotiation Deadlock Reported

NANKING, July 8 (AP).—A Chinese Communist spokesman declared tonight peace negotiations were in complete deadlock and that all over China fighting was breaking out "like a series of small fires."

"Unless something is done quickly to stamp them out," he added, "they will develop into a grave conflagration."

His gloomy view of the situation coincided with pessimism in Government quarters, and there were reports of new clashes in Manchuria where rival Government and Communistic commanders arranged a peace parley at Changchun Thursday in an attempt to end the fighting.

To Build Entire Village For New Lumber Camp

(Special to The Colonist)

PORT ALBERNI, July 8.—Work has begun on one of the largest logging camps in British Columbia, located about 14 miles from Franklin River on Alberni Canal. It is being built by Bloedel, Stewart & Welch Co., Ltd.

As designed, the camp will be one of the most modern of its kind in Canada, and will have about 80 families and from 350 to 400 men. There will be all the modern conveniences of a village, such as sewers, plumbing, electric light, and a housing scheme with a central heating system.

A two-room school will be built, along with a special recreation field and hall for indoor sports. There will be regular showings of motion pictures.

Joining the proposed camp and the present base camp on Franklin River will be a company railway with a gasoline speeder to carry 40 passengers. A regular daily boat is now in operation between Franklin River and Port Alberni.

Construction was to have started last Autumn, but shortage of materials intervened. It is expected the camp will be fully completed in about one and a half years, and will operate about 15 years.

Harold Brownson is resident camp foreman, and Jack Bell is his assistant. According to John S. Mottishaw, chief forester for Bloedel, Stewart & Welch Co., Ltd., the new development is part of a plan of the company in its systematic logging operations to provide an everlasting supply of timber.

"The whole operation proposed is on a permanent base, but future plans depend on Government willingness to change its policy of land tenure and taxation," he said. He stated the proposed step will mean a permanent source of supply to the large Port Alberni mills.

British Loan Clears Hurdle

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—The $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain cleared its first barrier in the House of Representatives today on a 181-to-67 vote after President Truman wrote that its defeat would imperil the United Nations plan for world economic co-operation.

The vote came on a motion to put the Senate-approved legislation formally before the House for a four-day debate.

Mr. Truman declared that "without this (loan) agreement it will be difficult, if not impossible, to proceed with the United Nations program for economic co-operation."

State Secretary Byrnes cabled from Paris an appeal to the House for ratification.

Indicative of administration difficulties, Chairman A. J. Sabath (Dem., Ill.) of the rules committee told the House that "for the first time in 13 years I am unable to support the administration."

On the other hand, Rep. H. W. Smith (Dem., Va.), who often differs with the administration on domestic matters, took the offensive in behalf of the loan.

"Don't measure this thing in dollars," he shouted. "Measure it in blood. Measure it in terms of peace."

Dollar Parity Is Threat to Gold Mines U.S. Investments in Canada Fare Well

(By The Canadian Press)

Rows of figures hammered out on ticker tapes or posted in stock exchanges yesterday told the story of the effect of dollar parity on the livelihood of the Canadian hardrock miner or bush worker—and for a time after the exchanges opened the prosperity of those Canadians seemed to hang in the balance.

Cutting the value of the United States dollar in Canada by 10 cents meant reducing the export price of gold $3.50 an ounce and that of lumber products accordingly. That could mean some of the smaller gold mines would have to retrench, perhaps close down altogether, and appeared bound to affect the strength of newsprint investments.

When the exchanges opened, values of gold and paper stocks dropped sharply. Base metal stocks also weakened.

It was estimated on the Toronto exchange that gold stocks alone dropped in value at least $150,000,000. Paper and gold stocks in Montreal plunged as much as eight points. Canadian mining stocks were generally weak at noon on both exchange and curb in New York.

But after the opening flurry, mining noted a tendency for the bewildered market to stiffen. Once past its early nervousness, the market settled down and the golds, especially the old-established mines, tended to find their new level.

Elsewhere the situation was much the same. Values dropped from 10 to 25 per cent in the first hour's trading in Vancouver but all rallied to wipe out part of their losses before noon. Sales were nearly 60,000 shares, mostly golds, and the sales total was above normal.

The situation in New York was complicated by uncertainty over what would happen with price control gone.

In the Commons in Ottawa yesterday J. M. Macdonnell (P.C., Muskoka-Ontario), urged that steps be taken to keep the Canadian gold mining industry in a "strong and progressive position."

Speaking during the budget debate, Mr. Macdonnell said the move to bring the Canadian dollar on par with that of the United States "will have a most serious effect on the gold-mining industry."

In New York, Stewart B. Hopps, president of the International Utilities Corporation, which has three Canadian subsidiaries, said today Canada's revaluation of its dollar had added "more than $150,000 to the consolidated annual earning power" of his company.

All companies whose stock was held in the United States but whose assets were in Canada would be similarly benefited, he said.

Money Orders Now Go Dollar for Dollar

DETROIT, July 8 (AP).—Detroit post offices did a land office business today as a quirk in Canadian-American financial relations provided a means of easy money.

But the bonanza was short-lived. After an estimated $100,000 business had been done in a few hours, United States postal authorities put the lid on sales of Canadian money orders.

The boom started when word spread that such money orders still could be purchased at a 9 per cent discount.

One Detroiter alone purchased $2,000 worth of $100 money orders at the usual deduction in exchange.

The Post Office Department later said that tomorrow money orders would be exchanged dollar for dollar.

B.C.'s Police Now Linked With All U.S.

Another link between British Columbia and the United States to speed the apprehension of border-jumping lawbreakers was forged yesterday, when a brief exchange of messages between Victoria and Olympia, Wash., marked the entry of the British Columbia Police communications system into the vast network of telegraph, teletype and radio telephone systems operated by American state police forces.

First Canadian police force to be hooked up with the United States system, Provincial Police headquarters can now make direct and instant connection, through its Station CG9M, with more than 1,000 American stations and, through these monitor points, can flash emergency messages to the Mexican border or the remotest Eastern seaboard points.

Negotiations for the international hookup were culminated at 11:06 a.m. yesterday when H. W. Algeo, chief of the Washington State Patrol, flashed "Congratulations on our first Canadian-Washington contact," to B.C. Police headquarters here.

At 11:11 a.m. Commissioner T. W. S. Parsons, head of the provincial force, replied: "Congratulations reciprocated on this first United States-Canadian police radio-telegraph link. This is, indeed, a forward step."

Advantages of the connection will be reciprocal, police officers here said yesterday. Fast-traveling criminals crossing the border either north or south can be headed off by teleprinter or radio warnings to patrol cars, and emergency messages to bona fide travelers can be transmitted by the same means.

Second Conviction In P.O.W. Slaying

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., July 8 (CP).—Sgt. Walter Wolf, German prisoner of war charged with the murder of a fellow prisoner at the Medicine Hat internment camp, September 10, 1944, was found guilty by a six-man Alberta Supreme Court jury tonight and sentenced to be hanged.

Of the other three charged with the crime, Sgt.-Maj. Bruno Perzenowski already has been convicted and sentenced to hang October 16 in Lethbridge jail. Sgt.-Maj. Willi Mueller and Sgt.-Maj. Henrich Busch are awaiting trial.

Britain-Vancouver Flight Is Planned

PRESTWICK, Scotland, July 8 (CP).—A special Trans-Canada Air Lines plane leaves here Tuesday on the first direct commercial flight between the United Kingdom and Vancouver—a flight connected with ancouver's Diamond Jubilee celebration.

In addition to passengers and ordinary mail, the plane will carry a number of congratulatory messages to the Mayor of Vancouver, including letters from the Lord Mayors of London and Westminster; Sir Archibald Harris, United Kingdom timber-controller; Sir Gerald Burrard, descendant of the man for whom Burrard Inlet was named, and Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer of British Columbia, now in London.

Cowichan Bay Buildings Razed in $65,000 Fire

Only charred timbers and smouldering foundations remain at the Cowichan Bay site of Maxwell House and main buildings of Capt. Don Peck's fisherman's resort, after bucket brigades and emergency fire-fighting equipment battled a spectacular blaze early Sunday morning for more than four hours.

There was no loss of life, and injuries were confined to several fire fighters whose hands and faces were scorched while trying to quell the blaze which did damage estimated at $45,000.

Oil and gasoline storage tanks nearby narrowly escaped the flames. Had they been ignited, it is believed the entire Cowichan Bay waterfront community would have burned to the ground.

Owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Andrews, Maxwell House had just been completed as a modern and fully furnished 21-room hotel. It was partially insured.

A short circuit in electrical wiring was believed responsible for the fire, which started about 5:30 a.m. Flames had secured a firm hold on the building before being discovered by a maid upstairs who smelled smoke and gave the alarm.

There were two explosions, one a hot-water tank and the other a large oil container. Nearby residents who assisted in fighting the blaze reported yesterday that pieces of hot dishware and cutlery were showered on adjacent roofs and the roadway after the explosions.

Tourists staying at Maxwell House rushed out, scantily clad, and with but a few personal belongings.

Former A.R.P. equipment was used to fight the blaze, and played a part in preventing the fire from spreading to adjacent properties, including the Anchor Cafe and Stewart's Auto Marine Station.

There was no wind at the time of the fire.

A fire truck of the Duncan Fire Department arrived soon after the fire had been reported. Under the direction of Chief Joe Chaster, several members of the department concentrated on preventing the fire from igniting oil and gasoline storage tanks situated west of Peck's buildings.

The Peck property is reported to be protected by insurance.

Without accommodation, tourists and others staying at the stricken buildings were forced to take refuge at nearby homes and other tourist centres, or return to their own homes.

Loss in the destruction of the boathouse operated by Capt. Peck was estimated at $20,000.

No boats were burned. As quickly as possible they had been towed out of range of the leaping flames. A pier leading from Maxwell House was partially destroyed.

Reports received at the scene of the disaster yesterday indicated that both parties plan immediate rebuilding of their properties.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were at their own bayside home, a short distance away, when the fire started.

Claims Contour Mount Klitsa Altered by Quake on June 23

PORT ALBERNI, July 8.—Mount Klitsa's twin peaks at Sproat Lake have changed their shape, according to William Charters, Alberni. In a letter to The West Coast Advocate, he said the change took place during the earthquake on June 23.

Alone on a big skid float of Bloedel, Stewart & Welch Co., Ltd., he was getting a bucket of water from the lake when the 300 tons of machinery aboard began to heave.

According to the letter, he looked up at Klitsa and "the whole side fell right out of the higher of the twin peaks."

He said the mountain is usually snow-capped, but it now has a trail of brown, 1,000 feet wide from the peak to the valley.

Courtenay Trade Licences Higher

COURTENAY, July 8.—Amendments to trade licences proposed by the City Council included a fee of $50 every six months for stores on wheels, and $20 per month for trucks which deliver gasoline and oil to service stations.

Certain stores which remain open after regular shopping hours will be prevented from selling goods other than drugs, cosmetics, newspapers, magazines, patent medicines, sick-room supplies, tobacco, cigarettes and fountain pens.

Sooke Students School Orphans

SOOKE, July 8.—The question of accommodation for eight school pupils will be discussed in East Sooke Farmers' Institute Hall on Saturday night. East Sooke School will not be used this year.

Farmers' Institute Hall will also have to be moved from its present location, which is privately owned.

Lady Emily Walker recently suggested the hall be moved to her property in East Sooke, where it might be used for school purposes, or pupils could be provided with transportation to the new building in Sooke Rural School District No. 62.

Seek to Control Buses on Island

PORT ALBERNI, July 8.—A resolution urging that municipalities have control and operation of motor buses within city limits was passed by the City Council. It will be sent to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention at Qualicum Beach, September 6 and 7.

The resolution reads in part: "It is resolved that the granting of all licences for the control and operation of motor buses operating entirely within the boundaries of a municipality should be part of municipal administration, and should be under absolute control of the council."

Bishop Cody Addresses C.Y.O. Group

DUNCAN, July 8.—Most Rev. John C. Cody, Bishop of Victoria, told delegates from Vancouver Island parishes at the eighth annual convention of the Catholic Youth Organization here on Sunday that youth was needed to kill one of the greatest evils of today, cynicism.

"We should not be embittered against our fellow man," he said, "but should each pull together to gain the proper end."

Bishop Cody expressed his pleasure at working with the people of the Island for the past nine years.

"I leave here with fond memories of my stay in Victoria."

The convention opened with a solemn High Mass celebrated by Rev. Msgr. A. G. Baker in St. Edward's Church after which a general assembly and lunch was held in the parish hall. A sports program and council meeting for all officials and visiting members completed the afternoon activities.

Solemn benediction was held in the evening, with Rev. Msgr. Wood officiating.

The convention closed with a banquet and public meeting, for which Mayor G. H. Savage, of Duncan, was among the guest speakers. Vocal selections were by Miss Isabel Baubren and Miss Lillian Benny.

Build 100 Houses For Island Towns

A construction program involving nearly 100 houses at Courtenay and Port Alberni will get under way within a week, James C. Gray, Toronto, Canadian field supervisor of Wartime Housing, Ltd., said at the Empress Hotel yesterday.

The Island program is part of a 400-house construction schedule throughout British Columbia designed to provide homes for veterans in areas where jobs are available. Remainder of the houses will be at Rossland and Kimberley.

Mr. Gray said that the scheme aimed to establish workers in lumbering or mining areas where full-time employment was fairly certain.

Except for these areas, no new housing has been undertaken since May 15. Canada's housing shortage seems to be easing somewhat in the larger centres, Mr. Gray observed.

Plan Rail Depot At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI, July 8.—Canadian Pacific Railway may build a new passenger, freight and express depot on Argyle Street.

No definite announcement has been made by company officials, but it is expected that the proposed depot plans will be in the architect's hands in time for construction to commence next year.

The building will house spacious offices and adequate accommodation for travelers.

Courtenay Board Wants Teachers

COURTENAY, July 8.—Trustees of School District No. 71 require eight teachers for high schools at Courtenay, Comox and Tsolum. Subjects they will be required to teach include home economics, industrial arts and physical education. One of the vacancies is also that of full-time librarian.

Need Instructors At Lake Cowichan

LAKE COWICHAN, July 8.—Lake Cowichan School District No. 66 requires a teacher of commercial subjects, two for Nixon Creek School, Grades I to VIII, one for Rounds School, two for Yount School at Youbou, and three for Lake Cowichan Elementary School. Salaries range from $1,300 to $3,000 per year.

Predicts Tremors Within Two Months

COURTENAY, July 8.—Dr. A. E. Hodgson, Ottawa, Dominion Government seismologist, said here today that earth tremors will be felt on the British Columbia Coast for the next month or two. He added there would be no major disturbance such as occurred June 23.

Courtenay suffered severe damage when the British Columbia Coast was shaken by the June earthquake. A heavy chimney crashed through two floors of an elementary school, a section of the post office was torn out, hundreds of chimneys were knocked down, many windows were broken, and other damage was caused.

Nanaimo Asks For Alexander

NANAIMO, July 8.—City council tonight passed a resolution to be forwarded to the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Alexander, requesting that Nanaimo be included in his Western itinerary to present His Majesty's awards of the O.B.E. to Pete Maffeo, Nanaimo, and John Tully, Departure Bay, mentioned in the list.

Council also will build a gate on the waterworks pipeline near the South Forks dam, with the caretaker in charge of the key. Instructions will be given that only logging trucks operating in that vicinity and city officials may pass. The gate also will act as a deterent to tourists reported to be fishing in the big dam and other persons cutting down trees for firewood.

Council tabled for a full council meeting a report from the Union of British Columbia Municipalities stating that the next convention will be held at Harrison Hot Springs by invitation of Fraser Valley municipality and New Westminster.

Thanks will be given by letter to Captain William Higgs for free use of his barge to take Nanaimo's float to the Vancouver jubilee parade and to George Dorman and his committee who constructed the float.

PORT ALBERNI, July 8.—Canadian Legion Branch, No. 55, went on record at its monthly meeting in protest of the Federal Government allegedly selling vacant lots on Anderson Avenue at prices between $500 and $700.

E. A. D. Jones claimed the lots were below standard, and that several veterans made purchases "much to their regret." It was decided to secure full information on the lots and prices received.

Alberni Ranger Urges Trespass Prosecution

PORT ALBERNI, July 8.—Complaints about indiscriminate damage to trees in harvesting cascara bark would cease if owners of property laid charges against persons trespassing upon their land, according to Harry Stevenson, forest ranger for Alberni district.

Adventures With Large Bear Described by Elk Lake Man

Adventures with a large bear in the northern wilds are described by Peter Rodstrom, veteran northland prospector, in a letter to Mrs. Rodstrom at Elk Lake Auto Camp.

Mr. Rodstrom and his partner, J. O'Grady, were developing a discovery made by Mr. Rodstrom. Returning to camp for a meal, they found that several pounds of bacon and ham had been eaten, obviously by a bear. Bruin had also smelled out their honey and butter. Loaves in a flour sack had been dragged several feet and left.

The following night Mr. O'Grady felled the bear with a rifle when it came back for another meal and ripped open the canvas wall of the tent where the two prospectors slept.

This was not Mr. Rodstrom's first encounter with wild beasts. He spent one night sleeping alone beside a bright fire while seven wolves circled him in the snow.

Although he meets disbelief, Mr. Rodstrom swears that he and his late partner Charlie Rumsey (since killed in the crash of an aircraft at Bort Alberni) were chased by a real sea serpent in Western Hudson Bay. This is Mr. Rodstrom's story. And he's sticking to it.

From a canoe off Eskimo Point the two men noticed a peculiar creature, which they described as "something like a simple-minded horse," but also serpentine, swimming near. Then two or three undulating humps appeared at short intervals.

The men drew closer, and found the creature as inquisitive as they were. It dived under the canoe and emerged on the other side, staring curiously. Deciding the thing was too big to trifle with, they steered away, but the Hudson Bay version of "Caddy" followed them as fast as the outboard motor traveled. Fortunately he grew tired and disappeared.

A heavy walrus bull gave the two men an anxious time on another occasion. He attacked the canoe with upraised tusks. They escaped and gave walrus a wide bert thereafter.

At one time they made pets of white foxes, who rolled in the snow and begged for food, apparently unaware they were supposed to be worn on ladies' shoulders. Ptarmigan and marmots also became friendly, going up to the tent for nourishment.

Mr. Rodstrom inadvertently killed a friendly crow in Ontario at another time. After he had been tossing the bird its accustomed tidbits at supper, he pinched a thread of tobacco off his hand-rolled cigarette and threw it away. Poor "Jack" pounced, swallowed the tobacco and fell dead.

Taking shelter from a snowstorm in an Indian cabin of Northern Manitoba, Mr. Rodstrom witnessed the medicine man of the band hypnotize a woman who was in great pain, and enable her to walk and appear well. The old man, with rattles and full regalia, allowed him to witness the treatment—a rare concession to a white man.

The North has always had a natural appeal for Peter Rodstrom, who was born 100 miles north of the Arctic Circle at Malmberget, site of the famous Kiruna-vara iron mine, in Sweden. Before he was two, his parents settled on a Saskatchewan farm. At 19, Peter had responded to the call of the North and crossed Lake Winnipeg on his first prospecting trip.

Radiation Is More Deadly Than Atomic Bomb Blast

ABOARD THE U.S.S. APPALACHIAN, July 8 (AP).—The blast of X-rays and invisible alpha, beta and neutron rays that hit ships from the atomic bomb were more crippling than the blast that smashed down and the heat that wrecked some vessels.

It appears likely that some of the target fleet would have been unable to sail away even if engines still were in commission and it is probable that some ships that could sail might not have gone more than a few days out before they became ghost ships for lack of sufficient personnel able to work.

The precise effect of these rays is, and will remain, the most closely guarded secret of the atomic bomb.

Parties specially trained were able to enter the lagoon three hours after the air burst. But they could not approach closely to the numerous target ships.

Around these ships, X-rays stood like walls many feet thick. The outer edges of these ray walls were sharply defined. Just a few feet lay between a safe zone and a deadly one.

Even planes at 2,000 feet above the target ships more than an hour afterward picked up what Col. Stafford Warren, radiation chief, said was a "goodly" amount of X-rays.

Colonel Warren estimated there was danger from the rays within a mile of the bomb. Irradiation within this distance was tremendous. At two miles, this irradiation still was dangerous.

Scientists and officers agreed the rays would have made casualties of most or all of crews topside on some ships. Some would have been killed outright by rays. Others would have died within a week or month. Still others would have been ill within a week, and some for as long as six weeks. Some might have been left with permanent injuries.

New Strike In Toronto

By The Canadian Press

Clashes between rival fur unions, a new electrical strike involving 700 workers at Toronto and continuing negotiations in various disputes in steel, electricity, rubber and furs yesterday marked industrial Ontario, hotbed of Canada's labor troubles, with more than 14,000 employees on strike in that province.

Only other province to come into the labor picture was British Columbia, where members of the American Federation of Labor Foundry Workers' Union crossed Metal and Chemical Workers' Union (C.C.L.) picket lines at some foundries in Vancouver. Fred Abernethy, president of the A.F.L. union, had said his members in 17 plants would return to work despite the pickets after signing agreements.

The reverse of the Vancouver picket-line crossing took place at Toronto, where four A.F.L. fur strikers were arrested, charged with assault causing grievous bodily harm to a C.I.O. worker.

The C.I.O. fur workers last week signed an agreement with employers, but 400 A.F.L. workers continued their strike for two weeks' holidays with pay this year. The C.I.O. agreement was for such holidays in 1947.

Also at Toronto 700 workers went on strike yesterday at the plant of the Amalgamated Electric Corporation. The strikers are members of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.), whose 4,000 members employed at two Canadian Westinghouse plants at Hamilton, Ont., halted work four days ago.

At Welland, Ont., 1,100 U.E.W. members walked out last night. They are employees of the Electro Metallurgical Co. of Canada.

Chlorination Plebiscite Opposed by Esquimalt

Esquimalt Municipal Council last night decided against a chlorination plebiscite, discussed the proposed Saanich sewage system and offered Victoria Esquimalt's co-operation in establishing homeless families at Macaulay Point Camp if the city assumes responsibility under the Residence and Responsibility Act.

Chlorination decision came after reading of a letter from Harry Langley, chairman of the Anti-Chlorination League. Mr. Langley contended the decision on chlorination should lie in the hands of the council and ratepayers rather than in the newly-formed health board, and asked the council to declare a referendum.

Councillor J. P. A. Christensen disagreed, stating the health committee knew its business. Councillor A. C. Wurtele criticized people's failure to read the health board's pamphlet explaining reasons for chlorination. "A lot of nonsense" was being talked on the subject, he averred.

Submitting a plebiscite or referendum meant "asking the opinion of laymen on a highly technical point," said Councillor E. J. Read.

"Go over the health board's head? I can't see it," said Councillor Christensen. "I move the letter be received and filed." It was.

When Councillor Christensen brought up the subject of Saanich's proposed sewage tunnel from the Gorge Bridge to a sea outlet at Saanich Point, Reeve Thomas Hadfield said the council had not yet been officially notified of the project.

"They're going about it the hard and expensive way," volunteered Councillor Christensen. There should be a sewage disposal plant emptying into the Gorge itself, he thought.

The reeve suggested that Saanich might easily convert sewage to fertilizer by establishing a sewage farm. He expressed concern at Saanich's apparent intention to go ahead with the scheme without consulting Esquimalt.

F. G. Snowden, administrator of the city's social welfare department, wrote to the council apologizing on social welfare committee's behalf for continuing with the Macaulay housing project without referring to Esquimalt. In a second letter he said:

"We have received a plan of Macaulay Camp, and have been asked to signify which buildings will be required by the city. We should like to co-operate with you in every way possible, as in the event of any persons who reside in Victoria being allotted to any of these buildings, it would be necessary to consider the possibility of their social assistance. In that case we presume your municipal officials would be expected to administer on our behalf the Residence and Responsibility Act."

The committee had four families on its hands, he said, and had been warned by Emergency Shelter to expect a fifth following an eviction.

Council decided to notify the city that Esquimalt would co-operate with the city only if the city assumed responsibility for Victoria residents moved there.

Reeve Hadfield told the council that since B.C. Electric Railway Co. had co-operated in establishing bus service, the municipality should do its part to keep roads in repair. The council appropriated $488 for repairing and seal-coating Fraser Street from Munro to Old Esquimalt Road.

Oak Bay Wants Hazards Out

A demand from Oak Bay that Victoria remove "fire hazards" at the Willows fair grounds was read to city council yesterday. It was referred to the council's representatives on the B.C. Agricultural Association.

A letter from E. G. Clayards, Oak Bay fire chief, stated:

"An order to remove special fire hazards was issued from this office on May 20 to the Corporation of the City of Victoria in reference to the condition existing in the main building of the Exhibition Grounds.

"A period of 30 days was given to remove the hazards and, as that time has expired, it is quite important to know of the intentions of the Victoria city council on this matter."

Woman's Tip Causes Arrest Of Windsor Slasher Suspect

WINDSOR, Ont., July 8 (CP).—An ordinary butcher knife, distinguishable from thousands of others only because a rivet was missing from its handle, today was revealed as the clue which directed police attention in Windsor's sensational "slasher" investigation to 18-year-old Ronald Sears, of Windsor.

Sears, pale and wan but nattily dressed in pastel-toned Summer clothes, gripped the railings in city magistrate's court and heard authorities accuse him of two murders and three attempts to kill. He was remanded to July 15 without being asked to plead.

Publication of a newspaper photograph of the butcher knife brought a tip from a woman that led to the arrest of Sears during the week-end.

The knife was found in Windsor's waterfront area Saturday and police said they believed it was the weapon used to wound Joseph Gelencser. The woman told police she had seen Sears with a knife similar to the one used in the Geleneser stabbing, and Sears was picked up on a charge of vagrancy.

Police said Sears confessed to being the "slasher" blamed for two mysterious slayings which terrorized the Windsor area last August and for three other stabbings.

The slayings, given an unusually bizarre touch because each occurred at the full moon, touched off intense police activity along Windsor's busy waterfront. Citizens kept clear of the area at night and rewards totaling $3,000 were offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

MISS FRANKIE FAMBRO

After studying under Stella Saenger in Chicago, Miss Fambro appeared in leading roles in "The Swing Mikado" and "Chimes of Normandy" in New York and Chicago. Recently she has been heard as soloist with a number of prominent United States church groups and over radio stations of the Mutual network.

Visual education movies will be shown this morning, and on Wednesday, Sue Wotten, pianist, will make her Victoria debut. Selma Reyes, well-known violinist, will be presented during Friday's 11 o'clock musicale.

Some Children Like School

Evidently some Victoria children really enjoy going to school—so much so that they are keen to attend classes even in the Summer time.

Miss Kathleen Collins, of Prince George, B.C., who is in charge of the intermediate grades laboratory at the British Columbia Summer School currently in session here, began the five-week term last Tuesday with an enrollment of 26 youngsters in Grades IV, V, VI. The children attend in the mornings only, and the group is used for demonstration purposes.

Friday morning, to Miss Collins' surprise, 31 children appeared. They liked it so much they were bringing their friends with them.

Common Heritage

The University of British Columbia students, including no doubt a number of war veterans, who cited the need of a greater feeling of common nationality among Canadians, focused the clear eyes of youth on one of the most pressing problems of this country. Canada is a wide and spacious land. All her citizens are the inheritors of its vast bounty, and there should be no room for narrow sectionalism or parochial viewpoint. The war proved this to thousands of men and women as they travelled back and forth across the Dominion. It taught them a common pride in the country whose uniform they wore in those six years of common effort. It made them Canadians, irrespective of Provincial boundaries.

It was the late Lord Tweedsmuir who, in declaring that a Canadian's first loyalty was to Canada, indicated that in that national loyalty lay the seed of a further fidelity to the larger Commonwealth of British Nations. Legitimate patriotism stems upward, not down. Just as the precepts of the Commonwealth in turn enrich the world at large, so does a consciousness of nationality in Canada contribute to this country's strength and power for good in all its external associations. The full development of this Dominion as an influence of benefit to mankind beyond its boundaries, as well as a wholesome example within, is aided, not hampered, by the unity that derives from rightful pride in nationality.

Unity was placed second in importance by the students. These two factors, nationality and unity, are complementary. A greater consciousness of Canadian nationality would undoubtedly result in more unity, both of purpose and understanding. There should be no need for such terms as French-Canadian or English-Canadian, for example. All citizens of this country should be regarded as Canadians, as they are no matter their antecedents. The physical expanse of Canada is a challenge to the people who are heir to its vastness. It is all-embracing in its rich and infinite variety. So, therefore, should be the spirit of nationality which unites its occupants in a common heritage.

Patience Rewarded

Patience, it is said, is a virtue. It seems to be a quality highly desirable in international affairs, whether one is a participant in negotiation or merely a public onlooker whose interest is bound up in the outcome of high-level deliberations. The present Foreign Ministers' Conference in Paris is a marked case in point. No sooner does one difficulty appear to be removed than another is laid down in its place. Overnight an atmosphere of optimism engendered by seeming agreement becomes clouded with the threat of further dispute. Progress towards the goal of international harmony seems slow indeed.

Some such thoughts must occur to the other three foreign ministers in Paris, as they do to observers from afar, as Mr. Molotov, the Russian representative, contrives to raise fresh objections each time unanimity appears in sight. It looked over the week-end as though yet another deadlock loomed because of his insistence that the "Big Four" frame in advance the rules of procedure for the forthcoming 21-power peace conference, but happily a compromise has been effected through a proposal put forward by the French Foreign Minister.

Mr. Molotov was not on sound grounds in seeking to limit the initiative of delegates attending the general peace treaty assembly. The success of the peace gathering, and the importance of its decisions regarding a settlement of the vexing problems that await clarification through specific treaties, would be gravely prejudiced were delegates forced to assume the role of rubber stamps. It is to be expected that the four major powers will lead the peace treaty conference, but there is no warrant for their exclusive dominance of it.

News reports that yesterday's final agreement represented a victory for the British and American point of view, incidentally, were unwisely phrased. Compromise concessions are neither victories nor defeats, and there should be no attempt to make them appear as such. Rather they are the reward of patient effort towards finding a middle road acceptable to all parties.

The Indian Problem

In its present status the Indian question seems to be on the verge of justifying the prophecies of two great thinkers made a century or more ago. It was Lord Macaulay, a man who had lived some years in India and was profoundly versed in its lore, who said that the mission of Britain in that country was to bring Western enlightenment and improvement, to educate the people to the standard at which they might be trusted to govern themselves, and then to withdraw honored by the task it had accomplished.

It was an American, Ralph Waldo Emerson, who in his "English Traits," one hundred years ago, dealing with British colonial policy, wrote: "Their colonial policy, obeying the necessities of a vast empire, has become liberal. Canada and Australia have been contented with substantial independence. They are expiating the wrongs of India by benefits; first, in works for the irrigation of the peninsula and roads and telegraphs; and secondly, in the instruction of the people to qualify them for self-government when the British power shall be finally called home."

Naturally the instruction of the people of India, bedevilled as they are by caste and other racial problems, is a highly difficult task, and whether the masses of the people there are yet fitted for democratic government is a moot question. In the unsettled state of national affairs it would seem the part of wisdom for the Indian people to remain within the protection of the British Empire, and in all probability they will elect to do so. If left to themselves, should internal dissension ensue, there would always be the danger that some power, less liberal in its treatment of subjects than Great Britain, might step in and attempt to fasten a severe yoke upon them.

Herbert L. Matthews, a noted American correspondent and traveller, recently stated that he found in India a land as yet far from a true nation, where 135,000 Britons among 350,000,000 Indians kept order, restrained Hindu and Moslem from seizing each other's throats, and prevented a civil war which would pretty certainly provoke the intervention of some outside power.

A Hungry World

Just now actual hunger is probably prevalent over a larger section of the Earth's surface than ever before. There have been more severe local and sporadic famines, but at no time has hunger been so widely dispersed. Not long ago Mr. Herbert Hoover declared his conviction that many millions of the people of the world were living on a diet of such low caloric value that it amounted to slow starvation. His latest pronouncements have been more hopeful, but it is admitted that the situation in Asia and parts of Europe is still deplorable.

While U.N.R.R.A. is doing its best to meet the situation, it cannot accomplish its aim without whole-hearted support from such countries as Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina. Under such circumstances our people should willingly put up with any legitimate rationing intended to help less fortunate individuals beyond the seas.

The present situation seems in part to bear out the prediction made by Malthus in England as far back as 1798, that population tends to increase faster than food supply. Two agricultural professors of Cornell University have lately taken up the same theme. They find that crop land, other than hay and cotton, is only 4.3 per cent of the world's land area, and only about 5 per cent of the sea is commercially productive. While intensified agriculture may provide a remedy for a time, this could only be done by lowering the living standard. If pastures are to be turned into grain fields what becomes of milk, butter, cheese and meat? They point to intensively cultivated countries such as India and China, where the living standard is admittedly low, as proof.

Happily this condition is not likely to affect a country like Canada for some time, but it looms as a future possibility. If, as has been stated, by means of electricity and water vast yields of grain can be produced in short order and in a limited space, it should help to solve the problem. So far this method has been considered too costly, but if starvation threatened cost would become a small obstacle.

Seen in Passing

Whatever else Hollywood may be noted for it seems to know a good thing when it sees it, hence the interest being taken in the Cowichan Indians and their champion war canoe, Mount Prevost. This colorful crew have a fine record, and if they decide to accept the screen offer reported the motion picture capital will again be reminded of the possibilities of Vancouver Island in connection with its world-wide industry. The invitation in itself is a tribute to the native skill of the Cowichan Indians, whose triumphs in recent regattas have been as imposing as the mountain after which their canoe is named.

Someone has suggested, with some pertinence, that in addition to Mother's Day, Father's Day and similar observances the world should have a Ten Commandments Week. He thinks that if, for every day, the people of the world would study the Commandments and follow them wars would cease, famines might be nullified, and we should be on the threshold of a Golden Age.

When All the World Is Young

When all the world is young, lad,
And all the trees are green,
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen;
Then hey for boot and horse, lad,
And round the world away;
Young blood must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.

When all the world is old, lad,
And all the trees are brown,
And all the sport is stale, lad,
And all the wheels run down;
Creep home, and take your place there,
The spent and maimed among;
God grant you find one face there,
You loved when all was young.

American Soldier

By SCOTT MORTON
North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON, July 8.—American comrades-in-arms, who have lain for quiet decades in Arlington Cemetery, are now to be joined by one who comes to them unknown, but not a stranger.

The War Department has announced that the unknown soldier of the World War, honored symbol of all United States servicemen who fell in battle in this latest of our wars, will be buried in the tomb beside the unknown soldier of the Great War.

These two are not the only nameless dead to lie in honored ground at Arlington. Others died in other wars, in other years, and names died with them.

"They dwelt in the country without break in the succession from generation to generation, and handed it down free to the present time by their valor."

So spoke Pericles in his funeral oration over the bodies of slain Athenian warriors. So might a contemporary Pericles speak of those who lie in honored, unnamed graves in Arlington.

Generations who fought the war of 1812, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War are represented there. Not in Arlington, but in the old Presbyterian meeting house burial ground nearby Alexandria, lies an unknown soldier of the Revolutionary War.

ANCIENT CUSTOM

The custom of honoring the unknown soldier is not new. Thucydides, in "The Peloponnesian War," describes an Athenian burial in these words.

"In the funeral procession, cypress coffins are borne in cars, one for each tribe; the bones of the deceased being placed in the coffin of their tribe. Among these is carried one empty bier decked for the missing, that is, for those whose bodies could not be recovered."

Recent in our observance is the honoring of all through the honoring of one. For instance, although there is a monument in the Alexandria churchyard to the unknown soldier in the Revolutionary War, it was not put up until the late 1920's.

The body was unearthed in 1828 when workmen came across a wooden munitions box containing the dust of a soldier "in the uniform of the Continental Line." The body was re-entered, and the church records show a single line: "An old revolutionary soldier from Kentucky."

SUITABLY MARKED

The grave was forgotten many years. It is said that a member of the congregation, remembering from childhood the story her father told, asked, before her death in the mid-1920's, that it be suitably marked.

In 1905 the bodies of 14 unidentified soldiers and sailors, believed to be from the war of 1812, were found at the Washington barracks and re-entered in a single grave at Arlington. No tall monument tells their end. A standard military marker says simply: "Fourteen unknown soldiers and sailors from the war of 1812."

Bodies of 2,111 Union soldiers are buried in one plot where magnificent oak trees, English ivy and a boxwood hedge give them beauty. An imposing tomb gives them history.

"Beneath this stone
"Repose the bones of two thousand one hundred and eleven unknown soldiers
"Gathered after the war
"From the fields of Bull Run and the route of the Rappa-Hannock.
"Their remains could not be identified, but their names and deaths are "Recorded in the archives of their country and its grateful citizens
"Honor them as of their noble army of martyrs.
"May they rest in peace.
"September, A.D. 1866."

MARINE MEMORIAL

A memorial erected in memory of the officers and men who lost their lives in the destruction of the U.S.S. Maine at Havana, Cuba, February 15, 1898, was dedicated on February 15, 1915. Of the 229 men buried there 167 are unknown. The white marble base of the monument represents a turret of the battleship, above it rises the mainmast of the Maine.

These are the generations who await the coming of the unknown soldier from this, our latest war. Young men these, who lie so quietly in Arlington.

"They dwelt in the country without break in the succession from generation to generation, and handed it down free to the present time by their valor."

NEVER A DULL MOMENT

London Victory Parade Was Symbol of Unity

An Editorial from The Times, London

Even the pelting rain could not mar the main national celebrations of victory on Saturday. It fell indeed with more depressing effect on much that had been hopefully planned in the countryside and the villages, to which in particular countless thousands of children had looked forward; and that is deeply to be regretted, for children in these seven years have been cheated of their portion of joy and merriment, for which nothing in later life can properly make up.

The packed crowds in London, on the other hand, were sustained by an emotion too deep to allow them to be much distracted by damp and discomfort, and their sense of the greatness of the events in which they had played their part and of the fellowship in which they were enrolled was given visible shape and body, before the downpour set in, by the splendor of the spectacle that was unrolled before their eyes. The parade and flight-past were a dramatic representation of the force and spirit that had marched through danger to victory, conceived with imaginative insight, and executed with faultless precision. To the men who planned the procession and carried it out are due the thanks of a people who were enabled to see in a symbolic mirror the image of themselves in their greatest hour.

Many majestic pageants through the centuries have passed along the processional ways of London and Westminster, many more gorgeous in color, but none richer in significance than this. Into it flowed every stream of the national endeavor in war, so that the whole was a parable of that unity in diversity which gives to the disciplined co-operation of free men and free peoples a flexibility and endurance that an imposed uniformity cannot match. Fighting and civilian services, men and women, the young from the front line and their elders who had manned the rearward defences, shared the applause. Mr. Attlee and Mr. Churchill drove and sat together, and some measure of the national good fortune may be gained by reflecting in how few countries a like gesture would be easy and natural today.

With them Mr. Mackenzie King and General Smuts represented the unity—again in diversity—of the world-wide Commonwealth, illustrated in more detail by the marching troops from the Dominions and Colonies, themselves a nucleus of the unity of the Allied nations, for whom the resistance of the Empire in its hour of solitary peril had won time to marshal their line of battle. All was so contrived that each symbol of unity was made to converge, according to immemorial tradition, upon the King, and for him, with the Queen, the loudest cheers of the assembled multitudes throughout the day were raised. They were cheers not only of loyalty but of affection. The spontaneous warmth of the greeting sprang from the people's pleasure in the opportunity to salute, not only the appointed representative of their own life and tradition, but the personal leadership, service and friendship which King George and Queen Elizabeth devoted to their subjects' welfare throughout the war, and most lavishly at the most difficult and dangerous times.

A right instinct guided the organizers to bring the day's ceremonies to a climax on the river. Close on a thousand years ago King Edgar the Peaceful celebrated the unification of his realm with a state progress on the Dee; and now King George VI was afloat upon the tide where

. . stately Thames, enriched with many a flood
And goodly rivers that have made their graves
And buried both their names and all their good;
Within his greatness to augment his waters
Glides on with pomp of waters, unwithstood,
Unto the ocean.

Many who stood upon the bridges at dusk as the lights shone on dome and tower and the rockets flared, with the Royal Barge made fast at Westminster, must have seen in the mind's eye the sweep of a greater flood than Thames. In this day's solemnities the goodly rivers of valor and sacrifice, the waters of victory, were flowing down to become one with the tide of English history. Another epoch of danger triumphantly surmounted, another affirmation in the face of death of the faith in liberty, another service rendered by the British peoples to the universal cause, were being laid away with the battle honors of their ancestors.

Those who watched on Saturday—and those who came again in their thousands yesterday to see the bunting and the lights and to catch the echoes of a great occasion—will go forward into a new age, but the pride of these achievements, united now with the proud tradition they have inherited, will warm their heart and strengthen their arm in the face of every challenge they may be called upon to meet hereafter.

All our past acclaims and future: Shakespeare's voice and Nelson's hand,
Milton's faith and Wordsworth's trust in
This chosen, and chainless land,
Bear us witness, come the world against us, England yet shall stand.

From the Keating Squire: "A farmer does not worry about an eight-hour day. He would be happy to settle for an eight-hour night." . . . Things hard to get on account of the war are harder to get on account of the peace . . . Between Dawson Creek and Fairbanks on the Alaska Highway, a distance of 1,542 miles, there are three hotels, 15 eating places, 10 gasoline stations, three car repair shops and five police posts. A resident of Kenai, Alaska, who recently drove from Fairbanks to Seattle in nine days, reported the highway in good condition . . . Of the 1,400 members of the Moslem faith in North America, 200 live at Edmonton where they worship in a mosque erected in 1938 . . . From a Victoria business man who visited Matsqui, Mission, Abbotsford and Sumas Valley: "I was surprised to find plenty of thick, juicy steaks in small restaurants. There was no sign of the ravages of tent caterpillars anywhere. Radio station CJVI came in well both day and night. Mosquitoes were very bad because the river was higher than usual. Weeks of cloudy and rainy weather caused vast quantities of cherries and raspberries to go mildewy. Earwigs played havoc with the strawberry crop in several districts and necessitated use of tons of expensive bait. Everybody suffered from lack of boxes and crates caused by the lumber strike. Fruit pickers are extremely scarce, although fair rates of pay are offered. At Matsqui I saw a farmer placing metal flanges around his fruit trees to keep cats away from birds' nests. I also noticed a calf actually chewing through wire netting in an attempt to get out of a corral."

While it is quite true that a rescue bid may merely serve to make a bad matter worse, it is also true that the matter may already be so bad that it is good percentage to experiment, even at the possible cost of getting in deeper. Here is an extreme illustration of this point.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	1 ♠	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

From South's point of view it certainly did not look as though a single diamond overcall would be dangerous, and even after West's prompt double South was not apprehensive of a catastrophe. That, however (a catastrophe) is exactly what hit him.

West opened his singleton club; East crashed the king and ace, then, West having discarded a low spade, East shifted to the heart seven. West collected the ace and king and led a third round for East to ruff. East laid down the club jack; declarer ruffed low and was promptly over-ruffed. Now when another heart was led, East ruffed in with the jack and forced one of South's trump honors. To make a sad story short, declarer went down four tricks for the imposing penalty of 1,100 points.

South might have saved a trick by better play, but, to get back to the moral of this article, North could have saved two tricks and 800 points by rescuing with one heart. Unquestionably North's hand as a whole and his heart suit in particular were so weak as to discourage any idea of bidding, but as I said before, the situation was so desperate that it could scarcely be worse, whereas it might be improved. Even if the heart rescue didn't "hit" South, there was the chance that South, reading the situation, could bid one spade, or even one no trump, and thereby reach a contract far superior to one diamond.

MAKES NO DIFFERENCE

Sir,—Your headline, this morning, entitled "Canadian dollar at par with United States to curb prices," prompts me, as a visitor from the United States to make a few comments in relation thereto.

I have been coming to Victoria ever since 1932, not every year, but in many years. I love your country, your people, the way you live here, in British Columbia, and I assure you, and, my many friends here, that, this equalizing of our respective dollars, will not make the slightest difference to me, while I am here, or, when I return, in 1947 and, in those years thereafter, when I also hope and expect, to return to Victoria. I have spent, am spending, and, shall spend, what for me, is quite a "lot" of money, here, in British Columbia, but, for every dollar, either Canadian or American, I have always received, and, been grateful for, more than I expected, or hoped for, in satisfaction, comfort and happiness.

The statement by Mr. George I. Warren, which you quote, when he says: "It will make no difference to the influx of Americans to British Columbia, for they get half as much again here for their dollar, as they do across the line," is in my opinion, correct—it should be—.

I have been here, this time a month, already, shall stay more than another month, shall regret having to leave, even though only until next year, this lovely land of yours. Why, the gardens, here at the Empress are, to me, worth a substantial proportion of my room charge, but, there are many things, here, that money cannot buy, the "atmosphere," the "feeling," the "tempo of life" and all, which embodies the cordiality, the hospitality, and, the friendship, found here, in, again, I say, this lovely land of yours.

EXCHANGE RATE

Sir,—Now that the Canadian dollar has been returned to parity with the United States dollar, it would be interesting to know how many of our Victory Bonds were snapped up by United States subjects at a 10 per cent discount, which, with the present premium, gives every United States bondholder over $150 clear profit on each $1,000 bond. Was there ever such a sure and sound gift investment for the people of one country against their neighbors?

I have no grudge against our United States friends for taking advantage of their wonderful opportunity, but it seems there must be something very wrong with this kind of artificial pegging of exchange, which enables our Finance Minister, by a stroke of the pen, to remove money from one man's pocket and give it to another without warning or by your leave, causing still further confusion and dislocation of trade, etc.

FLEXIBLE POLICIES

Sir,—Regarding the outlawing of Fascism by Russia would Mr. Sanders explain the actions of the U.S.S.R. concerning the Argentine? Russia voted to exlude Argentina at San Francisco, but after an election was held and Peron returned she extended the hand of friendship. I understand Peron's regime is Fascist. So the question might be asked "Would Russia find Franco acceptable, too, if he held an election and won it?" Some writers claim that the policies and principles of the U.S.S.R. are as fixed and immovable as the north star, but as far as I can see they can be quite flexible and accommodating when a gain for themselves is on the sights.

The spirit of conciliation and compromise does not come easy to them, but by rubbing along with the other nations there is a chance that the U.S.S.R. will come to the conclusion that she might just as well come off her pedestal, shed her superior smile and play ball with the rest.

SCIENTIFIC AGRICULTURE

Sir,—In your news item "World Food Crisis Bad" in today's paper, Mr. Mooney, chief of administrative council, U.N.R.R.A., states: "The crisis is bad, and it is going to get worse. There is no solution."

Dr. Willcox, in his book "Nations Can Live at Home," took the trouble to acquaint the whole world with the scientific fact that the pressure of the population on the soil in any country was no longer an excuse for war. Furthermore, he proved that destitution of a population could be, comparatively, quickly overcome by the institution of intensive soil culture by agrobiological formula.

It seems this knowledge is not being made use of. Why not? Europe has a growing season practically equal to that of this continent. The problem could most probably be solved at the harvest of the second growing season after hostilities ceased. The book referred to is available at the public library.

Opposition Launches Attack on Budget Two Non-Confidence Motions Presented

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP).—Opposition spokesmen, firing the opening guns in the budget speech debate, today criticized the Government for offering only meagre tax relief, for failing to cut expenditures sufficiently, and for leaving the country's peacetime economy to the "blind blundering of chance."

J. M. Macdonnell (P.C., Muskoka-Ontario), chief financial critic of the Progressive Conservative Opposition, set off the barrage in a 9,000-word speech in which he stressed the "unreality of the budget." There was unreality in the new proposed deferred tax relief, in the facing of deficits, in the failure to accentuate production, and in the failure to make a concentrated attack "on the citadel of extravagance."

He concluded his criticism by moving a motion of non-confidence in the Government. The motion called on the House to express regret that the budget provided no tax relief to 1946, that it gave no indication of any serious attempt to eliminate extravagance, and that the policies of the Government were discouraging production.

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East), acting leader of the C.C.F. Party, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, followed Mr. MacDonnell.

Mr. MacInnis said the budget contained no indication that the Government was prepared to prevent the economy of the country from going back to what it was in the 30's. There was no proposal to bridge the gap between the investments needed for full employment and those private enterprise is prepared for.

MACINNIS MOVES WANT-OF-CONFIDENCE

"The country that could plan as well for war is left in peacetime to the blind blundering of chance," said Mr. MacInnis.

He also moved a motion of want-of-confidence in the Government. It criticized the Government for failing to increase income exemptions sufficiently, for failing to provide for public investment to assure full employment, for failing to provide for social security measures in the offer to the provinces, and for failing to recognize co-operatives as non-profit-making organizations.

Mr. Low said the budget as a whole had been a "great disappointment" to Canadians, and the Government had failed to meet the needs of lower income groups in raising income tax exemptions for single persons from $660 to $750 and married persons from $1,200 to $1,500.

Exemptions should have been placed at $1,200 and $2,000, with tax bonds providing the difference in revenue. The bonds could be made redeemable a year from now when the danger of inflation was passed.

Robert Mayhew, Parliamentary assistant to Mr. Ilsley, turned from the budget debate momentarily to answer J. F. Pouliot (Ind. L., Temiscouata), who charged the Government could not account for some $5,000,000,000 in its accounting during the last six years.

Mr. Mayhew said the amount represented the difference between receipts of $28,000,000,000 and expenditures of some $23,000,000,000, and that difference represented the growth in cash and other assets of the Government. These were shown in the Government's balance sheet in the budget.

Replying to criticism that taxpayers were being given no immediate relief, Mr. Mayhew said when the new income tax exemptions come into force they will be higher than those for any other English-speaking country. The reductions would mark a three-quarter of the way return to pre-war income tax exemptions.

Commit Youth For Trial

Allan S. Tapley, 20, 3153 Irma Street, was committed for trial on a charge of being in possession of goods over the value of $25, knowing them to have been stolen, after a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Henry C. Hall in city police court yesterday morning.

Tapley is alleged to have had in his possession three fishing reels, valued at $29.10, which had been stolen from Wilson & Lenfesty, 1225 Government Street, a sporting goods store. The store was broken into on the night of June 28.

Evidence was given by two other youths, aged 14 and 17 years, who admitted entering the store and stealing the reels. They said the loot was taken to Tapley's home on the night of the theft.

Constable Arthur Rudge, juvenile officer, stated he accompanied the accused to the Irma Street address where he recovered two of the reels. The third was recovered in a house on Fernwood Road, he said.

Penal Reform in Canada Urged by Bishop Sexton

"Penal reform in Canada is long overdue and it is time that Christian people and responsible citizens agitated and passed for such reform from the Federal authority," said Right Rev. Harold E. Sexton in a sermon at Christ Church Cathedral Sunday.

"The other day a mother came to consult with me about her son," said Bishop Sexton. "It was disturbing to see the pain and sorrow inflicted on a loving heart by her son's waywardness and misdeeds as well as by the laws of Canada. The lad had committed a serious offense and she agreed that he deserved adequate punishment.

"What happened? He was sentenced to a term of imprisonment, during which time he will apparently associate with all kinds of criminals, and hear first-hand particulars of all sorts of offenses. His character will be affected by these contacts. On release he will be under the perpetual eye of police, and generally regarded with suspicion.

"His mother quite rightly resents this treatment, which seems a most antiquated way of dealing with juvenile crime. It certainly promises no success in reforming a lad and making him into a responsible citizen.

"What that lad needed was a good spanking, and then to be placed under the sympathetic care and discipline of an institution, that would give him every opportunity to reform and eventually become a useful member of society.

"But under our present law," said the Bishop, "no judge or magistrate has the necessary authority to prescribe such treatment.

URGES AUTHORITY FOR CORPORAL PUNISHMENT

"How is this most pressing problem to be met?" he asked. "It seems we would do well to follow the British example, where the law provides for corporal punishment in the juvenile courts and where the Borstal system has been an unqualified success.

"We need an entirely new system which would, as with the Borstal institution, deal with offenders or delinquents from the moment they come into conflict with the law until they are rehabilitated."

Turning to the cause of the present wave of juvenile crime and delinquency, Bishop Sexton listed first the lack of discipline in homes and schools and the general laxity in courtesy and respect. The situation has been worsened by the exhibition of suggestive films, by crime stories over the radio and by wide circulation of "pernicious and unsavory literature."

CHIEF TROUBLE IN THE HOME

"But the chief cause of the trouble is in the home. The great need of today is sound, healthy disciplined home life. Let us realize that there is no honoring of childhood in that weak good-nature which shelters its own incapacity under the plea of encouraging self-determination, or the working out of a child's complex.

"There is no question that our young people need a controlling sense of duty, the sobering influence of reverence and the strengthening which comes from habitual self-discipline."

The bishop had a word about parents. "Parents who are irresponsible and indifferent to their children's misdeeds should be dealt with after the manner of a certain Western city in the United States. There a fine of $50 is imposed in such cases. As a result, juvenile crime in that city has been reduced 75 per cent."

B.C. Electric Case Argued in London

LONDON, July 8 (CP).—Hearing of an appeal by the British Columbia Electric Railway Co., Ltd., against a Supreme Court of Canada judgment continued today before the Privy Council's judicial committee, with D. N. Pritt arguing for the Crown that the company was a Canadian debtor.

He said the debt came into existence in Canada, money was earned in Canada, the company was admittedly resident in Canada and carried on business in British Columbia by Provincial licence.

The company maintains certain stocks held by non-residents of Canada are non-taxable under the Canadian Income War Tax Act. An Exchequer Court supported the company's contention and dismissed the Government's action. The Attorney-General of Canada then appealed to the Supreme Court, which upheld the Government claim.

The hearing is continuing.

City Revises Pension Rules

Council decided that all employees will be granted one month's pay and two weeks' holidays on retirement at the age of 65 or over.

All employees returning to the city staff from the armed services will be placed on superannuation as from a date 12 months after the date they first joined the staff.

No Comment Here On Living Costs

Walter Fish, representative of the Dominion Civil Service Commission in Victoria, had no comment to make yesterday on an Ottawa report that Dominion civil servants may be paid increased cost of living bonus beginning August 1.

Civil Service salary adjustments are made when living costs change by five points on a basis of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics index. The last adjustment was made in July, 1942, when the index was 117.9 points.

As cost-of-living is still rising, some Ottawa officials say it now appears certain the new July figure will be well above the requisite five points. The index reached 123.6 June 1.

Exact Position Magnetic Pole Will Be Sought

LONDON, July 8 (CP).—Preparations are being made for ground and air expeditions to follow up the flight of the R.A.F. Lancaster Aries which last Summer made special flights over the Arctic in an effort to establish the exact position of the magnetic pole.

A report on the flight which has just been issued says that indications obtained in Aries flights confirmed the calculations of Astronomer Royal Sir Harold Spencer Jones that the pole lies at a position 76 degrees north 102 degrees west in Bathurst Island, some 300 miles north northwest of the position in Boothia Peninsula where it was observed by the explorer Amundsen and where it has been shown on all navigational charts since.

Wing Cmdr. D. C. McKinley says in the official report that many more observations have to be carried out before the whole configuration of the magnetic field in the region of the magnetic pole's supposed position can be ascertained thoroughly.

Counselling Office For Air Veterans

"So many air force veterans have been coming in for advice and assistance that we have applied for and have been given permission to include counselling service with our recruiting activities," said Flt. Lt. D. J. Patterson, recruiting officer, yesterday.

Flt. Lt. Patterson pointed out that information about enlistment can be secured at the newly-established recruiting office, Room 411, Post Office Building. For those who want advice but are unable to call at the office, arrangements can be made to have an official call at private homes.

Recruiting has been brisk since the opening of the office, but there still is need of photographers, radio technicians and telephone men. Clerks and equipment assistants also can be placed immediately, Patterson said.

Kelp Harvesting Will Start Soon

Drawback for years to fishermen and other mariners, great kelp beds along the coast of British Columbia are starting to gain recognition for their potential value.

Commercial processing of the sea harvest of kelp will commence by September, it has been announced by officials of Canada Kelp Co., Ltd., with headquarters in Vancouver.

Operations will be concentrated on Deer Island, lying in the Queen Charlotte Strait between the northern tip of Vancouver Island and the Mainland. Two vessels, each former landing barges, will be used to harvest kelp beds nearby.

Rights to harvest kelp off Salt Spring Island have also been secured by the recently-formed company. There are places off this island where kelp beds extend a full 14 miles, and the growth is so thick as to prevent navigation of boats.

Because of their rapid growth, it is expected the kelp beds will be harvested four times annually.

Kelp meal will be the first product of the company. It is in heavy demand as a mineral and food supplement for the feeding of poultry and livestock.

'Bitter and Lemon' Drink Bitter Blow for Britons

By Canadian Press

During the evening hours husky working men used to enter London taverns, plunk down a sixpence on the bar counter and say: "'Arf of bitter, miss, please"—in full, confident tones.

Now it is "bitter and lemon, please" in an almost apologetic voice.

It is not that working men like bitter and lemon. Most of them hate it, but due to the current beer shortage publicans are forced to eke out precious supplies by serving each customer about two inches of beer mixed with mineral water. Only minerals fit to mix with beer are lemonade or ginger beer—but lemon is the more "popular."

Those pubs fortunate enough to get by without introducing minerals serve only half pints in the hope of discouraging customers from drinking too much. The effect is doubtful, however, as a "regular" will order a half-pint for himself and another for a hypothetical friend.

Generally indifferent to the amount of beer obtainable are the darts enthusiasts, often too intent on scoring their "singles" and "doubles" to notice what they are drinking.

Higher Costs Boost Prices Of Local Wine

Sharply-increased cost of fruit plus the greater cost of grain spirit now used in place of part of the former sugar content have forced a boost of 40 cents a gallon in the retail price of local wines.

The new price for Regal port and loganberry wine, $3.90 a gallon as against the former $3.50, is now in effect, a Liquor Control Board spokesman announced yesterday.

Vintners' representatives explained that during the last few years the price of loganberries has doubled from $120 to $240 a ton, while price of grapes has risen from $65 a ton to as much as $150 in some cases.

Notwithstanding these increases, price of wine to the public remained static until this month a boost went into effect.

Because of the impossibility of getting a sufficient quantity of sugar for wine production, the Federal Government last October approved regulations allowing grain spirit to be used in place of some of the sugar normally used. This grain spirit carries a duty of $1.50 a gallon, on top of the cost of the spirit itself.

"Even without the added cost of using spirit the price would have to go up because of the increased price of fruit," a vintners' representative said. He added that the increase in retail price fell far short of taking care of the greater cost of production.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER RABBIT HEARS MANY VOICES

Peter Rabbit was puzzled. Peter was very much puzzled. Truth to tell, Peter didn't know quite to make of his own ears. Here it was night, a moonlight night, to be sure, but still night, and Peter could have sworn that he had just heard the voices of some of his feathered friends who always sleep at night. True, some of them sometimes awake in the night and twitter sleepily. Peter had heard them do this often. But the voices that Peter was so sure he had just heard had come from overhead out of a clear sky. That could mean but one thing—that the owners of those voices were flying.

Peter sat at the edge of the Old Brier patch and stared straight up in the sky until the back of his neck ached. "I certainly heard them, yet I couldn't have heard them," he muttered. "It must be that I am dreaming, yet I never felt more awake in my life. There! There's one now! And there's another and another!"

Peter suddenly scampered into the dear Old Brier Patch in search of Mrs. Peter. "My dear," said he when he found her, "am I asleep or am I awake?"

Mrs. Peter looked at Peter sharply. At first she thought he was fooling, but when she saw how very much in earnest he was she began to be afraid that something was the matter with him.

"Don't be silly, Peter," said she.

"I'm not silly," declared Peter. "I'm not silly the least little bit. My dear, I want you to listen. I want you to sit perfectly still and listen with both ears as hard as you can."

So little Mrs. Peter listened and Peter listened. They listened and listened. Mrs. Peter was just about ready to ask Peter what this foolishness meant, when suddenly high above them the twitter of a bird was heard. Faint but clearly it came down to them, the call of one bird to another, and then the reply. "There," cried Peter, triumphantly. "Did you hear that, or did I dream that I heard it?"

"I heard it all right," replied little Mrs. Peter. "It was one bird calling to another and the other answering. But what of it? What is there to get so excited about?"

"Fuzzy," my dear," replied Peter, "what birds that you know fly at night?"

"Fuzzy, my dear," replied Peter, "what birds you know fly at night?"

Little Mrs. Peter looked thoughtful. "Hooty the Owl," she replied, "and Boomer the Nighthawk, and Whip-poor-will, and—and—"

"There isn't any other, and," cried Peter triumphantly, "you know as well as I do that most of our feathered friends fly by day only. Yet those voices we have just heard were of some of the Warbler family. Now, my dear, what does it mean?"

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP).—Scattered stocks shifted to recovery ground in today's market, while many leaders continued to stumble.

Dealings dwindled appreciably after a fairly active opening, and irregularity was the rule at the close. While there were a few exceptions, variations generally held to small fractions. Transfers of 680,000 shares compared with 490,000 Friday, which was a low mark since last August.

Buyers still were cautious, brokers said, pending Congressional decision on price controls. Good dividends, earnings and individual business prospects aided some favorites. Revaluation of the Canadian dollar, putting it on par with United States currency, propped several stocks, but depressed Dominion gold mining issues.

NO BENEFIT TO CALGARY

CALGARY, July 8 (CP).—Restoration of the Canadian dollar to parity with the United States dollar apparently came too late to benefit the City of Calgary, which paid out $298,515 as a premium on United States funds required to redeem about $2,800,000 in Calgary debentures payable in United States funds, which were called on July 1.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, July 8 (CP). — The Stock Market in the improved afternoon tone halved losses chalked up in the first hour in the rush to get rid of stocks affected by the return of the Canadian dollar to parity. Closing prices were the strongest of the day.

Trading was a little slower in the afternoon, and aggregate volume was about 2,000,000 shares.

Early losses for newsprint issues were greatly reduced in the late action.

Anglo-Canadian gained 5 cents, and Home lost 9. Other Western oils were mainly steady.

Winnipeg Grain

WINNIPEG, July 8 (CP).—It was a dull day on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, with little trading reported in either July, October or December futures. No export sales were made.

Prices fell the full 5-cent limit allowed in one day's trading in the initial stages, and remained there throughout the session.

Dull trade was attributed to the equalization of the Canadian dollar with that of the United States.

Montreal Stocks

MONTREAL, July 8 (CP).—Prices were sharply reduced in transactions today on the Stock Exchange and Curb Market. Under the leadership of papers, industrials, metals and utilities, all key groups were down in the indices. Some rallying occurred in spots after an early break, notably in papers. Volume was not heavy.

Price Brothers, off 8 at one time; Fraser, M. & O., Consolidated and Dryden were among those in papers which pared their losses. In industrials, only Sarnia Bridge and International Bridge firmed.

Laggards in utilities were Bell, Power Corporation, Montreal Power, Brazilian, B.C. Power, Shawinigan, C.N. Power and Winnipeg Electric.

Aluminium, Smelters, Noranda, Nickel and Hudson Bay were in loss territory in metals, and Imperial, McColl and B.A. were heavier in refineries. Senior golds were not boarded, and many junior mines were lower.

Promoters Blamed For Boxing Plight

N.B.A. President Says Dearth of Talent Due to Emphasis on Gates—List Ratings

By SID FEDER

PATERSON, N.J., July 8 (AP).—The National Boxing Association announced its regular quarterly ratings today and President Abe J. Greene blamed the shortage of championship talent on promoters who pay too much attention to "high-priced tickets and record gates."

The N.B.A. moaned that "boxing has less championship timber in most of its classes than in many years." As evidence, Greene pointed out to the new listings which show no "logical contenders" for Joe Louis' heavyweight championship. Billy Conn was dropped to fourth place among the "honorable mentions" as a result of his eight-round knockout by Louis last month, while Tami Mauriello and Jersey Joe Walcott headed the parade back of the Brown Bomber under the heading of "outstanding boxers."

"And both of these are veterans of years of fisticuffing, who, if they haven't completely gone over the hill, have at least seen their peak," Greene added. No Canadians were listed.

The veteran N.B.A. head called for "a new deal which will take boxing out of the cash-register class and restore it to competitive sport." Failure of new "name" fighters with ability and class to come along since the war has been caused largely, Greene charged, by "over-emphasis on the box office instead of on the improvement of the breed."

"Most of the blame for this condition stems from New York," he went on, pointing to the recent Conn-Louis rhubarb as an example. "There is only one cure for this, and that is to forget concentration of high-priced tickets and record gates and pay more attention to giving up-and-coming youngsters a chance . . ."

The listings:

Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis; logical contenders, none; outstanding boxers, Tami Mauriello, New York; Joe Walcott, Camden, N.J.

Light-heavyweights Champion Gus Lesnevich, Clifton, N.J.; logical contenders, Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati; Billy Fox, Philadelphia.

Lightweights Champion, Ike Williams, Trenton, N.J.; logical contenders, Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia; Willie Joyce, Gary, Ind.

Featherweights Champion, Willie Pep, Hartford, Conn.; logical contenders, Phil Terranova, New York; Jackie Graves, Minneapolis.

Bantamweights Champion, Manuel Ortiz, Los Angeles; logical contenders, Kui Kong Young, Honolulu; Bernie Goldberg, Detroit.

Flyweights Champion, Jackie Paterson, England; logical contenders, Dado Marino, Honolulu; Joe Curran, England; Rinty Monoghan, England; Alfred Chavez, Los Angeles.

Stolz Gets Crushing Blow From Montgomery

Lightweight Champion Bob Montgomery, of Philadelphia, Pa., has just delivered the crusher that dropped Challenger Allie Stolz, of Newark, N.J., to the canvas for a kayo in 2:54 of the 13th round of a scheduled 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden in New York. Referee Ruby Golsten rushes in from the left. Stolz was floored five times in various rounds before the lights went out for him.

Joe DiMaggio Out Of All-Star Game

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio suffered a torn cartilage in the left knee in sliding into second base in a game against the Athletics in Philadelphia yesterday and Dr. S. W. Moore said today the centre-fielder would be lost to New York Yankees for at least two weeks.

Dr. Moore made an X-ray examination at hospital today of the knee and ankle the Yankee Clipper injured when his spikes caught in the top of the bag in the second inning of the opener of yesterday's double-header.

American League Rated Too Strong on Mound And at the Plate—Passeau and Feller Start

By GAYLE TALBOT

BOSTON, July 8 (AP)—Bob Feller, Cleveland's great star, and Claude Passeau, veteran Chicago Cubs right-hander who pitched a one-hitter against Detroit in the last world series, today were nominated to square off at the start of the 13th annual all-star game between the American and National Leagues tomorrow at Fenway Park.

STEVE O'NEILL

Baseball fans set a record in advance of the game, Earl Hilling, publicity director of the American League, announced that $105,000 was realized from the sale of approximately 34,000 tickets, surpassing the previous gate record of $98,692 in the 1935 game at Cleveland.

Manager Steve O'Neill, of the American Leaguers, announced that Feller, the game's leading strikeout artist, would be followed after three innings by Hal Newhouser, of Detroit Tigers, with Spud Chandler, of the Yankees, blazing them across in the last three frames—providing, of course, that everything goes according to schedule.

Charley Grimm, who will mastermind the underdog Nationals, apparently had not decided which members of his somewhat undistinguished staff would work the second and third three-inning stints, but most of the observers were delegating Rip Sewell, of Pittsburgh, and Howie Pollet, of St. Louis Cardinals, to continue the heroic task of trying to keep the power-laden American League line-up quiescent.

Heroic appeared to be the word for the starting line-up given out by O'Neill was one calculated to make any pitcher quail, even though such illustrious sluggers as Joe DiMaggio and Hank Greenberg were missing from the list. Joe renewed an old Yankee injury yesterday, while Hank, for some reason not clear to anybody, was not chosen for the American League all-star squad.

NEWHOUSER, CHANDLER FOLLOW FELLER TO MOUND

While the National League club will be no slouch and potentially packs good wallop at the plate, it simply does not stack up with the Americans on paper, either in pitching or batting, and there is no reason to doubt that the 3-to-1 odds being quoted against the senior circuit are just about right.

The trio named to fire them across for the Americans—Feller, Newhouser and Chandler—have won 15, 16 and 12 games, respectively, while losing only a dozen among them. The veteran Passeau, though possibly the best choice Grimm could have made to start, has won only seven while losing four.

Line-ups follow:

American League — Johnny Pesky, Boston, ss; Dom DiMaggio, Boston, cf; Ted Williams, Boston, lf; Charley Keller, New York, rf; Bobby Doerr, Boston, 2b; Mickey Vernon, Washington, 1b; Ken Keltner, Cleveland, 3b; Frank Hayes, Cleveland, c; Bobby Feller, Cleveland, p.

Cann Pitches Shutout Win Over Birdmen

Legion	6	4	.600

Eagles	2	9	.182

Picking up two unearned runs in the fifth inning, Canadian Legion strengthened their hold on second place in the McGavin Cup chase at Royal Athletic Park on Sunday when they blanked the Eagles, 2-0.

Lloyd Cann was the winning pitcher, with Stan Curry again the unfortunate loser as his teammates kicked away another well-pitched job. Curry took 11 on strikes and permitted only four hits, while Cann was nicked for six well-scattered safeties.

The winning rally stemmed from an attempted squeeze play. Singles by Cann and Wright left runners on third and first with one out. Anticipating the squeeze, Catcher Carson called for a pitchout and Cann was caught between third and the plate, only to score when Third-Sacker Ellis hit him with the ball in the ensuing rundown. Wright went to third on the play and counted when Parkins finally laid down the bunt.

Eagles made an effort to tie it up in the eighth but had two runners wiped out at hte plate. Ellis opened with a triple but was out trying to score on an infield roller. Two walks loaded the sacks but a double play by way of the plate retired the side.

The game was called at the end of the seventh inning because of rain.

A crowd of 5,500 fans, largest of the season in Spokane, paid a top price of $25 for box seats. All proceeds from tonight's game, estimated at $30,000, will be given to the Spokane Baseball Benefit Association.

The association was set up to raise $50,000 for the families of the nine players who were killed and the six who were injured when their chartered bus crashed and burned on a road trip to the coast. Officials of the association said they had raised approximately $45,000 at noon today.

Ciros Defeated In Fastball Final

Ciros, top club in the Victoria men's Senior "A" Fastball League, dropped the final in the Vancouver Diamond Jubilee fastball play-off at Vancouver Saturday night to Vancouver Girardis, 4-3, in an 11-inning thriller.

Twice comnig from behind to knot the count, the cafemen were finally forced to admit defeat in the second overtime frame on a questionable interpretation of the rules by the umpire.

Much of the credit for the showing of the local club must go to Joe Bryant, who pitched six innings of the semi-final in the afternoon when Ciros eliminated the Manarins, 3-2, and then came back with less than two hours of rest to hurl all of the final contest.

TORONTO, July 8 (CP)—John Lewis, president of the Ontario Golf Association, announced here tonight Nick Wisnock, Phil Farley, Jack Nash and Rudy Horvath would represent Ontario in the Willingdon Cup interprovincial golf matches at Edmonton, July 29.

W. Wilson Wins Bowling Title

The Peace Cup, emblem of the singles lawn bowling championship for Vancouver Island, was won by W. Wilson, of the Canadian Pacific Club, in last Saturday's annual contest. Wilson won over 54 competitors on the knockout system.

In the final game he had a close contest with John Imrie, of the Victoria West Club, winning with a score of 15 to 14.

T. Campbell, of Burnside, and Riquebran, of Victoria West, were the runners-up in the semi-finals.

Win by Default

Hotshots were awarded a scheduled fastball game in the women's section last night when the R.C.N.A.D. nine failed to put in an appearance.

Playing two games on a trip Up-Island on Sunday, Wally Yeamans' Hopefuls came out on top in both encounters. They squeezed through to an 8-7 decision in 12-inning struggle at Ladysmith and edged out Chemainus, 8-6, in the second exhibition.

Tacoma to Open Series With Athletics Tonight

TACOMA, July 8 (AP)—Rain has forced indefinite postponement of the Tacoma vs. Victoria baseball game scheduled for tonight as a benefit performance for survivors of victims of the bus crash which killed nine Spokane Indian baseball players.

Western International League officials said they would set a new date for the tilt soon.

Tacoma's fourth-place Tigers, currently a scant four games from the W.I.B.L. leaders, Salem Senators, will open a six-game set with the Athletics here tonight with a single game at 8. Other games will be played at the same time tomorrow, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, with the sixth contest set for Saturday afternoon, at 2:30.

This will be the second appearance of the season for the Tigers in Victoria. They opened the W.I.B.L. season here, dropping the odd game in seven in the early days of the pennant chase before the Athletics became bogged down in last place.

Both clubs have strengthened since then and the Tacomans will have no setup with the A's showing a lot of fight in all their recent games, although still taking the short end more times than not.

Tacoma's two catchers, Kemper and Kuper, lead the Tigers at the plate with averages of .374 and .329 respectively, while Infielders C. Clifford, Hedington and Peterson are all over the .300 mark.

Ace of the visitors' hurling staff is a righthander, Cy Greenlaw, who has a mark of 13 wins and four losses. Jungbluth, Martin, Sostre, Jimmink and the promising youngster, Richie Colombo, make up the balance of the mound staff.

Games Sunday saw the Salem Senators strengthen their hold on first place with a double victory over Wenatchee, while Tacoma and Vancouver, and Victoria and Bremerton, split a pair. Yakima walloped the luckless Spokane club, 24-1, in the first game of their twin bill. Score of the nightcap was not available.

Annual B.C. Rifle Meet Set For Next Week at Vancouver

Details of the British Columbia Rifle Association's 62nd annual prize meeting scheduled for the week of July 13 have just been released by Capt. Lottie Collings, association secretary.

The meet will be held at the Blair Range, North Vancouver, and promises to bring together the cream of British Columbia's marksmen to battle for provincial honors.

This year's expanded program, the first since the war started, includes matches for servicemen and civilians in both big bore and small bore rifles, as well as pistol and revolver. In addition to an impressive array of cups and trophies, nearly $1,000 will be distributed in cash awards in service rifle events.

The big bore rifle events will continue daily Monday through Saturday.

Pistol and revolver matches will be held on Wednesday, July 17, and include eight 22 and centre fire events, both individual and team. Lucky pistol contestants will divide 67 medals and $400 in cash for the day's shooting. N.R.A. grading in the pistol events will assure equal prize distribution among tyros.

Eight interesting small bore events carrying cash awards totaling $140 should keep the 22 rifle range busy on Thursday and Friday, July 18 and 19. The program calls for individual and four and seven-man team events, as well as a matchwise cadets and junior club members under 18.

TOAST and TEA

By J. V. McAREE

THE Crippled Civilians' Quarterly reports that recently it was looking over a copy of the old Toronto World for October 20, 1895. Among the items which The Quarterly's editor read with interest and even fascination, was an advertisement by John Miller & Co., of Queen Street West, Toronto. Here are some of the things which the firm was offering for sale: Turkeys, ducks, geese and chickens at 6c to 8c per pound; No. 1 Cape Cod cranberries, 9c a quart; fresh or smoked herrings, ciscoes or bloaters, a cent each; No. 1 well-fed lamb, 4c a pound; roast beef, 5c per pound; boiling beef, 2c. The merchant reported that potatoes were rather scarce because of bad roads, but he had available a limited quantity at 28c a 90-pound bag, and grand turnips at 10c a bag. But perhaps it was in those days or a little earlier that there was a popular slogan to the effect that "a dollar a day is very good pay."

ANSWER TO LAST PUZZLE

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

WHY IS IT CALLED A 'JUDAS WINDOW?"

"Can you tell me," inquires a reader, "how the phrase 'Judas window' began?"

Ever since the betrayal of Jesus Christ, the name Judas has been an eponym for a treacherous person—one who betrays while professing friendship. In addition, the name Judas has acquired a number of other similarly allusive uses.

The Judas kiss, for example, is known by everyone to mean a deceitful embrace. The Judas tree, a European and Asiatic species similar to the American Redbud, is the kind upon which Judas is said to have hanged himself in remorse. Judas-colored means "red," after the tradition that that was the hue of Judas' hair and beard.

A most interesting application is the so-called Judas hole trap or window, about which our reader writes. This usage became current about 1865 and referred to a peephole or opening in a door through which a person could look without himself being observed. It was particularly common in prisons, on cell doors. Through the Judas, as it was at first called, the guard could view the cell completely without the occupant's knowing that he was being watched.

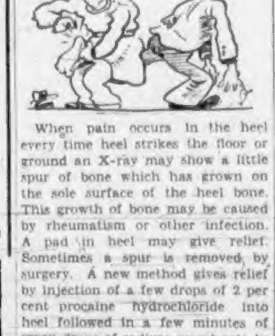
MONTREAL, July 8 (CP).—Prices were adjusted downward today on the bond market to conform to the elimination of the 10 per cent premium of United States dollars as against Canadian currency, while there was some shading of the quotations for Dominion securities through profit-taking by United States holders. Volume was not heavy. Brokers reported a true picture of new trading conditions would take a day or two to develop.

Relieving Pain in Heel Caused by a Bony Spur

By DR. J. B. WARREN



When pain occurs in the heel every time heel strikes the floor or ground an X-ray may show a little spur of bone which has grown on the sole surface of the heel bone. This growth of bone may be caused by rheumatism or other infection. A pad in heel may give relief. Sometimes a spur is removed by surgery. A new method gives relief by injection of a few drops of 2 per cent procaine hydrochloride into heel followed in a few minutes of seven drops of sodium moorhuate in 5 per cent alcohol.

Household Finance Safe Yields Thieves Big Haul

More than $1,000 in cash and cheques was stolen by thieves who blew open the safe in the office of the Household Finance Corporation, 211 Central Building, over the week-end, city police were informed yesterday morning.

Entrance was made through an open transom police said.

The yeggs, whose expert job on the safe door indicated they were no novices, also forced a strong box kept inside the safe, reports stated. Cash amounting to $706.00 and cheques totalling $2,559.62 were reported missing.

The theft was discovered early yesterday morning by L. T. Jones, 1184 Oxford Street, a janitor in the Central Building.

Detectives F. Woodworth, D. Donald-on, Sgt. S. Wilkinson and Constables R. Lanning, N. Bath and A. Appleton investigated.

Two other business premises, and a private home also were entered over the week-end but nothing was reported missing, police reports stated.

A door to the office of the Standard Oil Company on the Industrial Reserve was forced open and desk drawers ransacked.

Entrance to the Sol-Way Cleaners, 416 Wilson Street, was gained by removing a panel of glass from a skylight, police said.

The home of Dr. J. Walker, 1710 Rockland Avenue, also was broken into, police said. Entrance was made by breaking a kitchen window. A window in the dining room also was discovered broken.

B.C. Symphony, U.B.C. Choir of Music Is Urged by Noted Toronto Musician

Establishment of a provincial symphony orchestra with players drawn from all parts of British Columbia and creation of a chair of music at University of British Columbia were suggested yesterday by Milton Blackstone, noted Toronto musician, who is spending a few days at the Empress Hotel.

A provincial symphony orchestra could be augmented by ten or 15 players from England, he added. This would not mean depriving British Columbia musicians of their proper place, because musicians were none too plentiful in the province, he said.

Commercially as well as culturally British Columbia was allowing its best human resources to drain eastwards and southwards, Mr. Blackstone said. A conservatory with first-class staff was a necessity for the West.

"We should keep our men of talent here instead of letting them drift away," Mr. Blackstone said. "Canada can never grow to full stature unless we keep what we create. The poetry and music of Western Canada deserves very careful consideration on the part of those who say they are thinking of the future but who are doing nothing."

He mentioned that there are many fine violins and cellos brought here from England just going to the worms in attics and store rooms. There was a crying demand for good instruments by advanced and capable Canadian musicians, who were willing to pay a good price, he added. He has been compiling a list of first-class instruments available in Canada and the total so far is 180.

Acclaimed a child prodigy, New York-born Milton Blackstone toured the United States at the age of ten as a violinist. He organized and conducted Young Men's Symphony Orchestra of New York, was later conductor of Andreas Dippel's Light Opera Company, went to Toronto and became viola player and business manager of Hart House String Quartette. He retired after 21 years with the quartette.

In the course of [illegible] he has [illegible] to make [illegible] and now proposes to write an autobiographical book on which his wife will collaborate.
